Excerpt from The Atlantic Monthly, Vol. 16: A Magazine of Literature, Science, Art, and Politics; October, 1865 And who can fail to remember What superior resources a cultivated mind has over one sunk in Sloth and ignorance, - how much wider an outlook, how much larger and more varied interests, and how these things support when out ward props fail, how they strengthen in misfortune and pain, and keep the heart from anxieties which might wear out the body? Scott, dictating Ivanhoe in the midst of a torturing Sickness, and so rising, by force of a cultivated imagination, above all physical anguish, to revel in visions of chivalric Splendor, is but the type of men everywhere, who, but for resources supplied by the mind, would have sunk beneath the blows of adverse fortune, or else sought forgetfulness in brutalizing and destructive pleasures. Sometimes a book is better far than medicine, and more truly soothing than the best anodyne. Sometimes a rich-freighted memory is more genial than many companions. Sometimes a firm mind, that has all it needs within itself,...
