Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . From the introductory. A LETTER, My Lord Archbishop, In your Grace s charge to the Clergy and Churchwardens of the Diocese of Canterbury, as reported in the Guardian, I have noticed a reference to the work on which the Professors of Divinity at Oxford and Cambridge were requested to advise the Committee of Bishops, who were in consultation this time last year on the subject of the Athanasian Creed. And your Grace is reported as saying that if our friends in the University of Cambridge or elsewhere are enabled to throw any light on the original manuscripts, of course we are very grateful for their assistance. But (your Grace proceeds) still the plain fact of the question is, Is it desirable that this Creed with what are commonly called the damning clauses should continue to be recited tweve times a year in the services of the Church of England? I venture to think that the two subjects will be found to have an intimate connection with each other. Before I begin, I would say that I have considered it to be quite within the duty which I owe to the Church of England in my position as Canon of the Cathedral of Chichester to devote a very considerable portion of the year, for many years past, to theological research of such a character as I could not have undertaken if I had been charged, in that capacity, with any heavy duty of a simply Diocesan character: - research which has required me to spend countless hours in public libraries, and, during the last year, has compelled me to travel much on the Continent. Some people,...
